Up Front

The Holiday Spirit—'Tis the season to be jolly, and Home Box Office invites you to check these pages for details of a jam-packed entertainment month . . . a repast of outstanding motion pictures, sports, great music and children's and family specials.

In particular, we call attention to HBO premieres of Lucille Ball as Mame on Christmas Day and the rollicking Western hit, Blazing Saddles, on New Year's Eve.

For moms and pops who might be up decorating trees or helping Santa, there's a special "Encore Performance" at 11:30 Christmas Eve of the Robert Redford, Barbra Streisand hit, The Way We Were. And Christmas afternoon showings of Jesus Christ, Superstar and Huckleberry Finn.

Martha Lewis Lambert, who regularly entertains HBO small fry in "Martha's Attic," weighs in with Christmas in the Attic beginning Sunday, Dec. 22. There is also a charming Family Special, "Tatters, the Orphan Lion," on Christmas Eve and repeated Christmas afternoon, about an explorer's experiences as foster parent to a motherless cub.

Ring in the New—This may be a big year for home parties on New Year's Eve, and if your revelry is within viewing distance of HBO, you may enjoy a midnight showing of Woody Allen's Everything You Always Wanted to Know about Sex but Were Afraid to

Ask. By the time the title has been announced, we'll be well into 1975, but it follows immediately after Blazing Saddles . . . and will be followed (for non-Bowl fans) with a New Year's afternoon premiere of The Terminal Man starring George Segal.

Music and Sports, too—The sound of music and the pitter-patter of basketball sneakers will permeate the HBO holiday season, too. For classical music lovers, there are Christmas Eve and Christmas Day performances by the Vienna Philharmonic of Beethoven's 8th Symphony in F Major.

Many of the National Basketball Association, American Basketball Association and National Hockey League's most exciting teams and stars make the HBO scene in December.

The Eastern Collegiate Athletic Association's Holiday Basketball Festival, usually a barometer of the season's emerging powerhouses, takes over the Madison Square Garden boards and HBO screen on Dec. 26, with semifinals on Saturday the 28th and finals on Monday, the 30th.

So, Holiday Greetings and best wishes for a happy new year of entertainment on the HBO Network.

THE SEVEN UPS

Sizzling crime thriller from Phil D'Antoni, director of "The French Connection." Roy Scheider and Tony LoBianco as detectives who use unusual and unsanctioned methods to capture criminals. Spectacular car chase through streets of New York. 20th Century-Fox. PG. (103 minutes)

"Far the best of the current cop movies"
Time Magazine

The Tamarind Seed

Cold War intrigue with Julie Andrews and Omar Sharif. Vacationing assistant to British government official, romantically pursued by Soviet intelligence agent, suspects romance is ploy to recruit her for spy work. Adapted from Evelyn Anthony novel, directed by Blake Edwards in London, Paris and Barbados. Avco Embassy. PG. (123 minutes)

"Intelligently conceived and fancily made"
New York Times

"CLAUDINE"

Contemporary comedy-drama of ghetto life acted with compassion and humor by Diahann Carroll and James Earl Jones. Love affair between Harlem mother of six and happy-go-lucky garbage man succeeds despite myriad hardships. Music by Curtis Mayfield. 20th Century-Fox. PG. (92 minutes)

"A first-rate American comedy..."
New York Times

SOUNDER

Poignant story of Southern sharecroppers during Depression gained Academy Award nomination as Best Picture and for Cicely Tyson as Best Actress. Paul Winfield and Kevin Hooks, as son torn between sense of duty to family and desire for formal education, also star. 20th Century-Fox. G. (105 minutes)

"At last, a compassionate and loving film about being black in America."
Time Magazine

MAME....

Lucille Ball dominates lavish screen version of famous musical comedy about madcap auntie raising orphaned nephew in unorthodox, freewheeling manner in 1920s-1940s. Beatrice Arthur grand as Mame's acid-tongued actress friend. Warner Brothers. PG. (132 minutes)

"When the character of Lucy, an inspired slapstick performer, coincides with that of Auntie Mame... marvelous."
New York Times

Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Sex* But Were Afraid to Ask

Woody Allen reaches new heights of absurdity in take-off of Dr. David Reuben's straight-faced best seller. Subject is spoofed in sketches starring Tony Randall, Lynn Redgrave, Gene Wilder, Lou Jacobi and, of course, Allen. United Artists. R. (87 minutes)

"Best of Woody Allen's superb brewings and the funniest sex comedy we've encountered."
New York Magazine

BLAZING SADDLES

Mel Brooks directed, co-authored and stars in one of whackiest shoot-em-ups ever filmed. Superb performances by Cleavon Little, Gene Wilder, Harvey Korman and Madeline Kahn. Warner Brothers. R. (93 minutes)

"...convulsingly hilarious burlesque of the Old West..."
Cue Magazine

The Proof is in the Piggy Bank!

What would it cost you...

- to drive to the movies
 - park the car
 - pay a baby sitter
 - and stop for coffee afterwards?

Pay the Piggy, Please.
Say, $30 to $50
in an average month?

And how much do you

estimate your other evenings out this month would be likely to cost you, if you didn't have HOME BOX OFFICE
first run movies and sports and other programs to count on?
